To the Republican Voters of West Virginia

I respectfully solicit your vote and influence in behalf of my candidacy for Congressman-at-Large. I have never been identified with any faction and I appeal to the party as a whole for support.

I have always been a Republican. I am proud of our grand old party, its achievements and principles, and am full of faith in its future. My best efforts will continue to be spent in its service, believing that it can best serve our state and nation.

I appreciate the importance of the office I seek and if nominated and elected I will serve the whole people of the state. I have no affiliations that will embarrass or control me to the detriment of the public interest.

My record both public and private is the best guarantee that I will do what I say.

Very respectfully,

HOWARD SUTHERLAND

GOOD NEWS

S.S.S.

CURES OLD SORES

To every person suffering with an old sore or chronic ulcer, the very best news in this paper is contained in the present article. It is good news because it is true; it tells of a way to get rid of these plague spots which so often sap the strength and vitality, and best of all, this permanent cure is in reach of every one.

It is an absolutely true statement to say that every old sore or chronic ulcer exists solely because of bad blood. Outside contaminations or influences may increase the local inflammation, but such things have nothing to do with keeping the place open. It is the infected blood discharging its impurities through a weak spot on the flesh that does this, and the sore will continue, gradually growing worse, until the blood is purified of the exciting cause.

See how nature points to the cause through the symptoms. The inflammation, discharge, discolored flesh, and the fact that external applications never have any curative effect on the sore, show that deep down in the circulation there is a morbid cause which prevents the place from healing. But more convincing proof that bad blood is responsible for old sores, is furnished by the fact that even removing every visible trace of the ulcer by surgical operation does not cure; the sore always returns.

S.S.S. heals old sores because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers; it goes into the circulation and removes the cause from the blood. When the blood has been purified there is no longer any inflammatory or infectious matter to irritate the place and nature causes a natural and certain healing of the ulcer. When S.S.S. has cleansed the circulation and the place is well, it is not a surface cure, not simply a smoothing over of the outward evidence, but it is a perfect and permanent cure, because every vestige of the old cause has been driven out. S.S.S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, cleansing and invigorating in their nature, and of great tonic value. It is a medicine adapted to persons of any age, and is just as effective with the old as with the young or middle aged. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S.S.S. the system is greatly strengthened and benefited. To hear of S.S.S. has been good news to thousands, it is good news for you.

If you wish any special advice about an old sore or ulcer write for our free book, and ask our medical department to give any instructions you may feel the need of. No charge for the book or advice. S.S.S. is sold at drug stores.

PIONEER

Events Are to Be Shown at the Big "Buffalo Bill" Circus.

Buffalo Bill's and Pawnee Bill's exhibition here June 14 will present in their enormous tented Coliseum the largest and most diversified program ever given since Colonel Cody first introduced the "Wild West" as an amusement institution.

The piece de resistance, "Pioneer Events in Frontier Days," and adheres closely to narrative, in dramatic form scenically mounted and in size and personnel is the most extensive ever presented.

The parting of the curtains discloses untraveled prairies and plateaus desert wastes and snow capped mountains, with a large band of savages dancing the "Ong Sha Re" in the foreground, beseeching the Sun God to grant a year of game and "pale face," scalp aplenty. The festivities are suddenly broken up when an outpost dashes down the hill and informs the Indians, that an emigrant train is approaching.

The Redmen, stealthily conceal themselves behind hills and rock bent on pillage and massacre. The wagon train unconsciously reaches the concealed hostiles and in less time than it takes to tell it, a war whoop!—and the pioneers turn their startled faces into the very teeth of the yelling furies of a horde of merciless demons.

A battle to the death ensues, defeat meaning tortures and death for the whites. In the midst of the fearful combat the arena suddenly becomes surcharged with cavalry and plainmen who rush to the rescue of the settlers. The emigrant train and its occupants is a typical one and made up of prairie schooners, and other primitive vehicles, of the style of the "49-ers," yoke of oxen, cattle, dogs, and usual accoutrements of the hardy men and women in their "trek" towards the untamed Eldorado.

The "Far East" has been considerably augmented this year and among the new offerings is "The Meadowbrook Hunt," a facsimile of England's national sport. "Foxhunting," together with Olympic games in which Mr. Fred Gruner, the world's high jumping champion, competes with "Juno" considered to be the highest jumping horse in existence.

THE NECESSITY FOR GOOD ROADS

They Are Needed Everywhere and by Every One.

WILL LEAD TO PROSPERITY.

Congressman William Sulzer of New York Tells of the Great Advantages of Well Kept Highways—Charles Sumner's Declaration.

The following speech on the necessity of good roads was delivered by Hon. William Sulzer of New York before the federal aid good roads congress in Washington:

"For years I have been an earnest advocate of good road building. Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities, an advantage to the people who live in the country, and they will help every section of our vast domain.

"Good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable. They enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are the milestones marking the advance of civilization; they economize time, give labor a lift and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country—bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and religious and educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier firesides; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce; the mail routes of information and the agencies of speedy communication; they mean the economical transportation of marketable products—the maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and industry and intelligence and patriotism; they promote social intercourse, prevent intellectual stagnation and increase the happiness and prosperity of our producing masses; they contribute to the glory of the city and the country, give employment to our idle workmen, distribute the necessities of life—the products of the fields and the forests and the factories.

"The plain people of the land are familiar with the truths of history. They know the past. They realize that often the difference between good roads and bad roads is the difference between profit and loss. Good roads have a money value far beyond our ordinary conception. Bad roads constitute our greatest drawback to internal development and material progress. Good roads mean prosperous farmers. Bad roads mean abandoned farms, sparsely settled country districts and congested populated cities, where the poor are destined to become poorer. Good roads mean more cultivated farms and cheaper food products for the toiler in the cities. Bad roads mean poor transportation, lack of communication, high prices for the necessities of life, the loss of untold millions of wealth and idle workmen seeking employment. Good roads will help those who cultivate the soil and feed the multitudes, and whatever aids the producer and the farmer of our country will increase our wealth and our greatness and benefit all the people.

"One of the crying needs in this country, especially in the south and west, is good roads. The establishment of good roads would in a measure solve the question of the high price of food and the increasing cost of living. By reducing the cost of transportation it would enable the farmer to market his produce at a lower price and at a larger profit at the same time. It would bring communities closer together and in touch with the centers of population, thereby facilitating the commerce of ideas as well as of material products."

Mothers' Club Meets.

One of the most interesting meetings of the Bridgeport Mothers' Club ever held was the one Tuesday afternoon in the Methodist Episcopal church with the members of the Clarksburg club as its guests.

The meeting was opened by singing, "Till West Virginia's Dry," followed by devotional exercises led by the Rev. Mr. A. J. L. Curtis, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. A duet, "There Will Be No Tears in Paradise" was beautifully rendered by Miss Marguerite Johnson and Miss Ethel Heckert, after which the president, Mrs. A. B. Withers, introduced Dr. John Folk, who addressed the audience.

His subject was "What Shall We Teach the Laity in 'Regard to Health?'" and was very ably handled throughout his entire talk. He began with the importance of health, the intention of medical organizations to allay suffering and prevent disease, and of the struggle of physicians for the confidence of the laity which they have finally won. He told of the histories he had personally collected of fifty persons who had lived to be eighty-five or ninety years old and stated they had always been people of regular habits of life. He took up the diseases of constipation, enlarged tonsils, tuberculosis, paralysis, rheumatism and diseases of the heart. His discussion of each as to their causes, prevention, symptoms, or treatment was intensely interesting and highly beneficial.

The last part of his address was given over to "The Influence of the Mind Over Disease." He explained how difficult the task is to treat the patient who has no hope and how faith in the physician, the treatment, and courage are often instrumental in restoring to health those whose conditions were considered hopeless. Having attended Christian Science meetings and studied their teachings, he spoke authoritatively on the subject and discussed it as misleading, saying, "God has given us the gift, the work is ours." Where they are successful it was attributed to the influence of the mind over the body.

He said, "we are the possessors of two minds—the objective and subjective. When both are in harmony, we are well and happy and destined to live our allotted time."

"Doctors do not cure, they assist nature and lend us aid; but we effect the cure."

The value of good thoughts was emphasized as being the preconditions of good health, long and better lives, and a peaceful eternity.

Following the address a delightful social hour was held. The social committee was composed of Mrs. Gordon B. Late, chairman; Mrs. Lee Bartlett, Mrs. Marie Bartlett, Mrs. Walter Willis, Mrs. Norman Sutton, and Mrs. Will Golden served delicious Neapolitan ice cream, cakes and lemonade.

Those who enjoyed the meeting were Mrs. Nora Martin, Mrs. G. A. Woolter, Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Mrs. Sallie Johnson, Mrs. John Williams, Miss Addie Taylor, Mrs. A. S. Whitehill, Mrs. A. J. A Beautiful Home Wedding.

In the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James B. Martin, at Bridgeport, Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, there was a beautiful wedding, when Mr. Lyle Burd Hornor and Miss Lena Louise Martin were united in marriage in the presence of about 100 friends and invited guests.

The elegant home of Mrs. Martin was tastefully decorated with wisteria and lilacs, and at the familiar strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played with a tender touch of Mrs. Boyd Hornor, the bridegroom accompanied by his brother, Mr. Lee Hornor, as best man, received his bride from the arm of her uncle, Mr.
